DETAILED ACTION

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over EP 1,203,688 to Ryuzu.

Ryuzu teaches a four wheel drive power distribution control system with a friction clutch 3 and a power distribution control means 40a that varies the torque capacity of the clutch means to change the power distribution ratio. It also teaches providing behavior controls including braking force control 31 and traction control 33. The torque transmission capacity is controlled to avoid control interferences, as discussed in col. 1, lines 20-24 and lines 40-42. Equations in columns 8-12 show that the torque transmission capacity  $T_{tr}$  increases with an increase input torque  $T_o$ . In column 11, lines 40-50 and column 12, lines 1-5, Ryuzu teaches a controller that increases power to the front wheels (towards 2-wheel drive) when oversteer is strong. Para. 31 discusses a torque transmission capacity correction means for correcting torque transmission capacity based on yaw rate deviation.

Ryuzu teaches using equations, rather than tables, in the control means for determining control output values. However, it is well established that tables and equations are equivalent means for determining output in computer control systems. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to store control functions in tables rather than using equations to calculate output, since the two methods of data manipulation are equivalents in computer controls and accomplish the same result, and the use of tables can be more versatile.

3. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-9 are have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

4. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
